A Visit to the Forestry Station.

Ellis Review, 20. Last Monday afternoon we had the leasure of taking a drive to the State Forestry Station. On our way out we stopped at the residence of Mr. C. C. living. There is a fine-looking country between Ellis and Ogallah, and we doubt have fair crops, and did not seem to be especially scared over the recent warm weather, which our town croakers said was cooking everything, and our experi-ence in this country has proved to us seems to be picking up some, has some new houses and a lumber yard. Surmile west of Ogallah, and can readily be found by a large sign in front of the farm Geo. W. Houseman has the w ½ of sec. No. 1." Here we found Commissioner the building is to be completed as rapidly as possible. The farm is a fine one, withstanding the fact that work was not commenced until last May, Commissioner experimenting on two trees which have made a fine growth, and demonstrates J. Madsen, on the nw ¼ of sec. 2, t 13, the fact that they can be grown here.

We are under obligations to Commis-and raise trees enough to meet the demand. It will be remembered that the Forestry station is the pet scheme of Hon. W. S. Tilton, of Wa-Keeney, who was the farmer to procure a supply of forest trees, and should result in the course of a few years in putting fine groves on every Legends of Trees.

The elm tree is the symbol of St. Zenobius. When the coffin of that saint was carried past a dry elm the tree suddenly burst into leaf.

Near an old German castle is a lime tree which a boy, accused of killing his master, planted with its head in the earth, to attest his innocence if it grew and flourished.

The Luther elm, near Worms, is said to have been planted as follows: A bigoted old Catholic lady, thrusting a stick in the ground, declared her resolution not to accept the new faith till that dry stick became green. The fact that it did so proves

Polydore, one of Priam's sons, intrusted to the care of a king of Thrace, and by him killed after the taking of Troy; from his grave there grew a myrtle which, when Eness plucked its boughs, bled in a pure human fashion, much to that hero's dis-

The devil agreed with a man that he should have the latter's soul at the time came to look at the oak in the autumn he found it still in the leaf, nor did it part with its old leaves till the new ones began to sprout. In his rage and disappointment Bronchitis, or any affection of Throat, to sprout. In his rage and disappointment he scratched the leaves so vehemently that they have been in consequence jagged

Two friends were attacked by robbers in a wood, and one them was killed. The robbers having been put to flight by a flash of! lightning, the surviving friend, found kneeling at the side of his dead companion, was condemned to death for his murder. On his way to execution he planted a stick, which he adjured to take root and grow if he was innocent; as, of course, it is proved that he was by the beautiful apple that the stick became.

Renews Her Youth.

Mrs. Phœba Chelsey, Patterson, Clay county, Iowa, tells the following remarkable story, the truth of which is vouched for by the residents of the town: "I am 73 years old, have been troubled with kidney complaint and lameness for many years; could not dress myself without help. Now I am free from all pain and soreness, and am able to do all my own housework. I owe my thanks to Electric Bitters for having renewed my youth and removed completely all disease and pain." Try a bottle, only fifty centa, at Dr. Jones' drug store.

-We have just received one of the prettiest songs ever written, called "There is no one like mother to me," by Charles A. Davis. -It occurs to us that we have many readers who will take delight in reading this item. It relates to a man who used to have high political aspirations in this county, and to as good a woman as ever came west. Mrs. Morse was defeated for county superintendent in 1880 by Rev. J. A. Stayt. She was the regular Republican; nominee; he, an independent candidate. The Smith Center (Kan.) Bulletin says: "F. D. Morse and wife, well known in this county, the latter being at one time county superintendent of this county, returned from their New York and New Jersey home, to the brightest spot on earth-Kansas-to pass the remainder of their days. Mr. Morse finds his health much hotter in this country than the east, and has decided to remain permanently in the west. They each have many friends here who will be glad to welcome them back."
